

THE DENVER
A Cappella
PROJECT

Who Are They?

In the autumn of 1999, a group of talented musical friends got together out of curiosity to see what would happen if they tried singing some mixed a cappella harmony. With a vocal music teacher in command, and over 175 years of combined vocal experience, the result was the Denver A Cappella Project. Sporting three sets of spouses, two sets of siblings and two sets of in-laws, D.A.P. is a literal “family” that focuses on creating unique and entertaining performances suitable for any audience.

What Do They Do?

The exciting and unique mixed octet offers a wide variety of a cappella music. The Denver A Cappella Project’s performances showcase the musical and entertainment diversity of the group. With a musical repertoire consisting of classical, jazz, contemporary, patriotic, folk, pop and more, the group’s music reminds many audiences of such international favorites as The Swingle Singers, Chanticleer, The King’s Singers and others. However, the distinctive sound, artistic style and entertaining personalities of DAP makes them one of a kind. The group takes great pride in sharing their music with communities through performing arts programs, community events, fundraisers, parties and business functions. Able to entertain for minutes to hours before the few or the thousands, the group can create a custom show for virtually any situation.
